Mayfield gives up civil defense directorship

By SUSAN SINAIGO-WEICH
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — The sudden resignation of the city's civil defense director could be tied to politics.

"I can't say whether it was political or not," said Harold Mayfield, former director of the Emergency Services and Disaster Agency. "People will have to come to their own conclusions."

Mayfield said he received a call on Oct. 31 from Henry Bleniecki, assistant to Mayor Von Dee Cruse.

"Bleniecki called me over to City Hall," said Mayfield. "He told me they were thinking about seeking me to be the lesser post — they wanted to appoint someone else as director."

Mayfield said the lesser position offered him was administrative aide. He had held that position for several years before being named ESDA director. There is currently no such position.

"He told me the reason for the change was that they wanted to get 'their team' together," he said. "I told him my answer would depend on who the new coordinator would be."

The new director would be Dick Ervay, owner of Ervay's

Restaurant. Bleniecki reportedly told Mayfield,

"I wrote down the name on a little slip of paper in my billfold," Mayfield said. "He's (Ervay) never been involved in civil defense to my knowledge."

There has been no official announcement of the appointment, Ervay said Tuesday. He said he is not involved in local civil defense activities. He said he has a military background and at one time was a pilot instructor for the local civil defense auxiliary police.

Mayfield said he did not discuss the request further with Bleniecki.

Instead, he went back to his office and wrote his resignation.

"I didn't argue with him — I just got out," he said. "The conversation was a short one. I didn't appreciate it — I would have rather had it be my idea to step down."

Mayfield, 60, has been involved in civil defense since 1959, when he became a member of the auxiliary police. He was appointed director of civil defense last October, when former director Vic Koenig retired.

"I don't want to make any waves," Mayfield said of his reluctance to talk about the issue. "I wouldn't want the publicity on this to adversely affect civil defense."

One City Council member voiced disappointment about Mayfield's resignation.

Alderman Sam Whitmer, 2nd Ward, did not approve the motion to accept Mayfield's leave.

"Make sure that record shows that I voted no on that motion," Whitmer said after a last council meeting.

Politics were involved in Mayfield's resignation, Whitmer said.

"He was sandbagged," he said of Mayfield.

Cruse said if there had been politics behind Mayfield's resignation, it would not have been improper.

"The position (civil defense director) is appointed by the mayor just like the police chief and the fire chief," he said.

An explanation for why Mayfield resigned was offered by Cruse.

"I know why he resigned — because of ill health and personal reasons — just what it said on his resignation," he said.

In the interim between directors,

Cruse will handle civil defense, he said. He said he has not decided who will replace Mayfield.

Parents protest teachers' strike

By DONNA KIMBRO
Staff writer

MADISON — Parents of school districts continued their protest at the Madison School Board's offices Tuesday morning.

They were picketing because of the teacher strike that began Nov. 4 and continues. No contract has been scheduled between the district's and the teachers' negotiation teams. All Madison public schools have been closed by the lack of a 1985-86 contract.

TEACHERS LOCAL 763 members discussed the strike at a meeting Tuesday morning. At midmorning, the board issued a statement saying it is opposing giving the union power to make decisions that it is the board's duty to make. David Barrett, a grandfather of Madison students, said he had read the state law and the Madison teachers' contract, which he said has a 17-year history. Although arbitration on grievances had been described as the chief remaining point of disagreement, Barrett said he does not think the grievance clause is "a biggy."

"As far as I know, this clause has only been used four times in many years. All we need to do is parties work on the table and then come to an agreement until Sept. 1. John Palchett said he wanted to change the language in this portion of the contract," Barrett contended.

Barrett and two others picketed to Tuesday to put pressure to resume negotiations. Pearlie Robinson said she has two children enrolled.

Tap-on fees sought by Arlington Water

By SUSAN INDELICATO
Staff writer

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS — The names of 13 homeowners who owe money for water tap-on fees will be turned over to an attorney, it was decided by Arlington Water District commissioners. This week, the commissioners, the attorney will be instructed to add penalties for late payment of the fees, commissioners said.

"I'm ticked off about the whole damn thing," Water District President Jerry Liley said. "We have hundred different people paid some paid a long time ago, and they could have been earning interest on that money."

"I DON'T THINK it's fair to the rest of the subdivision," he said. "Without the delinquents, we'll have to do a new feasibility study and it's going to raise the rates."

Collection of all tap-on fees is a condition of the district's $345,000 loan from the Farmer's Home Administration.

Signed contracts paid an initial $50 deposit, leaving a fee balance of $750 payable:

"WE ARE CLOSE to closing a loan for a lot of money," Liley said. "We are close to letting bids. The plans are no problem."

The easements we're working on. The tap-on fees are a pain in the rear."

Water rates were first estimated at $25 a month, but because of a lower interest rate on the loan, the rate came down to $18 a month. If those who have contracts don't pay, the rate could go back up to $25 a month, Liley said.

In addition to the individual homeowners, the water district has received no money from the owners of Fairway Estates apartments. Also needed from the owners is an easement for the water line.

APARTMENT OWNERS paid an initial $600 deposit but still owe $17,400. The water district commissioners voted to allow the balance to be paid in installments, but no payments have been received.

"We are trying to work with the apartment owners about the tap-on and easement."

In other areas, water district engineer Dennis Denby said a third of the planning sheets have been completed for the water system. Engineers are working on specifications and hope to have them ready next month.

TWO PROPERTY OWNERS who signed easements but added stipulations agreed they would sign easements without the stipulations, which included free tap-on fees and free water.

The district is still seeking insurance. It was not received.

"I've got everything together the insurance companies need," Liley said. "I'm waiting for a reply."

"THIS IS THE WORST TIME to get liability insurance for a business," he noted. "Although we are not considered a bad risk at all, it will be tough to find insurance."

The water system, with water supplied by Illinois-American Water Co., should be in full operation by the fall of 1986, water district officials have said.

Hartigan drops gubernatorial bid

ILLINOIS ATTORNEY GENERAL Neil Hartigan, first to announce his candidacy for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, now plans to seek re-election, ending the governor's race to former U.S. Senator Adlai Stevenson.

Stevenson, loser by a narrow margin in 1982 to three-term Gov. James Thompson (Republican), says he will campaign more aggressively against Thompson in 1986. For more on the story, see Thursday's Press-Record.

Price injured on capitol steps

CONGRESSMAN MEL PRICE (D-21st Dist.), 30, slightly injured in a fall on steps at the U.S. Capitol Nov. 7, is set on seeking a 22nd consecutive two-year term in 1988. He probably will make that his last term, Washington sources say. Price said he slipped on steps and suffered a limp cut. After receiving one suture, he continued his daily routine and went to the House restaurant for lunch.

Granite City school board inductions

NEW SCHOOL BOARD OFFICERS were chosen in Granite City Tuesday night, and two new members of the District 9 board were sworn in. More complete coverage will be included in the Thursday Press-Record.

Army may dispose of lands

MORE THAN 100 ACRES at the St. Louis Area Support Center, a U.S. Army installation in Granite City, may be disposed of, said John W. Shannon, assistant secretary of the Army for installations and logistics. The move could mean 75 to 200 jobs for the area, according to Shannon.

MESD will pay assessment fees

CHANGING THEIR MINDS last week, Metro-East Sanitary District commissioners decided to pay for an appraisal of Granite City Steel property. Last month, board members balked at paying the bill, saying they never agreed to share the cost. MESD owes $10,360 for its share of the appraisal, which was made to help defend local governmental agencies' tax base.

Town Board wants raises halted

AN ATTEMPT TO STOP wage increases for eight workers in the township assessor's office was made by the Town Board last Wednesday. The board has no control over specifics in the assessor's budget, according to William Schooley Jr., township attorney. It can only approve or reject the annual budget total, he said.

Thompson holds bargaining bill

FIREFIGHTERS AND POLICE OFFICERS will be the last group of public employees in Illinois to be given collective bargaining rights under legislation approved by the Illinois General Assembly and sent to Gov. James Thompson. It was passed last week after concessions were made to the Illinois Municipal League, including weakening provisions for settlement of disputes by arbitration.

Quote of the week-Mayfield

"I can't say whether it was political or not ... He (Henry Bleniecki) told me the reason for the change was that they wanted to 'get their team together.' This quote, from Harold Mayfield, former director of the Emergency Services and Disaster Agency (Civil Defense), describes why he says he resigned his position.

Washington debate centers on 'the book'

Official Washington D.C. is talking about "the book." To incite animated debate you have but to mention "the book" and anyone within earshot will know which you are talking about.

"I read a book about — all things — "economics."

By an author hardly anyone has heard of before — Charles Murray.

Mr. Murray was born without problems in Iowa, attended Harvard, graduated with a degree in Russian History. He then served with the Peace Corps in Thailand.

He guesses he "always wanted to do something about poverty."

Now what he wants to do is to abolish the entire government welfare system.

The book, "Losing Ground," says that government welfare backfired, made bad things worse.

He has panicked the social scientists.

Mr. Murray traces the degree to which one family became addicted to welfare to its eventual undoing.

"We tried to provide more for the poor and produced more poor."

He says the welfare life has become a "self-reinforcing cycle."

The author contends that employment among black males has plummeted since the 1960s and the number of poor households headed by females has escalated proportionately. This he blames on anti-poverty programs which, he says, reduce incentives to work and to get married.

"If all the programs for the working poor" — he carefully specifies the working poor — "were abolished from Medicaid to food stamps to unemployment benefits, it would reduce unemployment and drastically reduce births to single teenagers."

Official Washington is buying Mr. Murray's book (one congressman bought 50 copies). Will it buy Mr. Murray's ideas?

The Wall Street Journal says that within the White House some studies are being prepared that the last domestic policy of the Reagan presidency should be a major welfare overhaul — and this book could really support.

Mr. Murray's critics are many, of course.

Democrat Congressman Charles Rangel of New York says, "Murray's taking advantage of a very nasty mood that's going around in this country."

Sen. Dan Moynihan — who godfathers many welfare programs of the '60s — urges liberals to attack the book.

Health Welfare Secretaries Margaret Heckler denies any link between welfare and the book's legitimacy. But she concedes that Mr. Murray may be right about welfare as a contributing cause of black unemployment.

And on best-seller lists, "Losing Ground" is gaining ground!

College's role in education

To the Editor:

Our group was organized to defeat the tax referendum proposed by Bellwood Area College and to support new members of the Board of Trustees.

We are very proud of the voters of the district. You have rejected the tax referendum resoundingly and have selected new representation with Lucy Reimbeck and Fran Breswell.

It is very clear that all of us demand financial accountability along with the return of the true function of the community college — education.

Voters, we salute you.

Remembers first visit to St. Louis

To the Editor:

My first visit to the Union Station in St. Louis was in August 1918, when I was 18 years old. I came from Piedmont, Mo., on a train whose railroad was later called Missouri-Pacific.

We had to take a cab from Union Station to the McKinley Station, 12th Street and Washington Avenue, St. Louis, to catch a street car to Granite City. The cab was pulled by one horse and was a square-topped buggy with tassels all the way around the top.

Market Street in St. Louis was all second-hand stores, saloons and cheap hotels from 18th to 12th streets.

On Oct. 17, 1985, I went to Union Station (now converted into a shopping mall) with the adult Bible class from the First Assembly of God, 24th Street and Grand Avenue, St. Louis, Okla., a difference the two trips and 67 years can make.

The building on the inside is beautiful. You can't believe it is the same.

Industrial park may cause drainage problems

By RACHEL NEWSOME

A letter was sent to Walter "Shang" Greathouse, executive director of Metro-East Land Development, regarding "serious drainage problems" that a proposed industrial park at Illinois Route 111 and Interstate 270 might cause area residents.

Supervisor Morris Miles discussed the letter at Thursday's Chouteau Township board meeting. Town officials said they do not oppose the industrial park proposal, but wanted to send the letter to express concern about the possibility of further drainage problems in the area.

Miles and Greathouse will work together to prevent the creation of added drainage problems.

Pat Polley, town clerk, read a memo and a bill for $1,999 from the insurance company of Association Insurance. Insurance coverage is being placed in a pool in which various insurance companies will participate.

Cicolello's future uncertain after congregation rift

GRANITE CITY — The status of Jack J. Cicolello, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Granite City for more than four years, is uncertain.

Lifetime deacon Sunday night asked for church members' suggestions on the makeup of a pulpit committee to seek a new pastor.

AFTER CICOLELLO's sermon on

Nov. 11, he said he stepped aside due to pressure; he did not participate in Nov. 10 services.

Also reporting pressure was Deacon L.E. Wyatt, who resigned.

A group backing Cicolello voiced a proposal Sunday night for removal of deacons Elbert Lewis, Jack Douglas and Paul Baker. That issue is to be decided at a special meeting following three weekly notices of the meeting, Lewis said.

WITH DIFFERENCES developing between two parts of the congregation, membership and attendance have declined. It was acknowledged at this week's business meeting that the church has been losing members since the entire hour-long evening service.

Differences include the extent of giving, with some families saying they are too poor to make substantial contributions.

Business sessions are to precede each Sunday evening worship service until a pastor is selected, deacons said.

Although the church's educational building is receiving little use, it is to be retained, and the church will continue the congregation decided.

FURNACE HEAT in the building will be reduced during winter months to conserve fuel and funds with adequate warmth provided in two offices by use of heating units.

The church will spend two days on expenditures, recharging of 12-year-old fire extinguishers and cleaning of church floors prior to this month's Thanksgiving services.

GC parent conferences receive good marks

GRANITE CITY — Parents of secondary education students were given the opportunity to sit by their sons to speak with their children's teachers at parent-teacher conferences Nov. 4-5. Through the visitations, 1,450 parents walked the halls and spoke with appropriate teachers.

Parents' first stop was in the main hall to pick up their children's grade card(s) and a school map. It was then up to the parents to visit selected teachers.

They reviewed materials their children studied, and they learned how to help improve students' grades and how their children contributed to class participation and class routine.

In addition to the conferences, parents enjoyed viewing all the graduations of prior classes at the school. To walk through the halls and look at these pictures was to step back in time for many of the parents.

Before leaving the building, parents were asked to evaluate the two-day conference. "The time spent was very worthwhile," according to Victor Buehler, assistant Granite City High School principal. "Most wanted to do again next year."

The idea of the two-day conference series was a joint effort of teachers, Gib Walmsley, principal, and Richard Brinkoff, administrative assistant for instructional services. "The conference gave working parents the opportunity to visit the school and teachers," Buehler said. "The only complaint was that the hours weren't longer."

MEMORIES. Lloyd and Kathryn Wilson remember classmates.

HIGH SCHOOL PRINCIPAL Gib Walmsley shows Deborah Czar her daughter Johanna Nichols' grade reports. Parents stopped by the high school office and picked up grade reports prior to meeting with their children's teachers in parent-teacher conferences Nov. 4-5.

TETE-A-TETE. Don and Lois Adams have a head-to-head conference with communications teacher Ron Pennell. Elizabeth Adams is Pennell's student.

Strike

ed in the school district and Lois Wilson said she has three school-age children.

THEY SAID they expected 20 to 22 more parents to participate later in the day. They added that parents will continue walking in front of the board office every day until some settlement is made and children are back in school.

The Madison Board of Education issued its statement Tuesday morning to parents, students, citizens and all other personnel of District 12.

"The board wishes everyone to know exactly what the status of negotiations is in the Madison School District," the statement related.

"The Illinois Education Labor Relations Act calls for binding arbitration over the terms and conditions of our contract. The Madison School Board offered this to the union three months ago."

"IN SPITE OF this offer, the union is now on strike against the board and community, claiming that the board is not willing to comply with the arbitration provisions of the law. This is unacceptable."

"The real issue is whether the union, through the contract and an outside arbitrator, can determine the board policies, practices, and the educational program of the district.

"The board feels that the community has elected them to represent the needs of the citizens in the interest of their best interest. Part of the board's responsibility is to bargain a contract with the union and abide by it; however, a contract should limit the scope of joint control. The real issue creating the strike is not contract terms or terminology, but whether the union is going to control all potential actions of the board beyond the contract itself."

"IN AN ATTEMPT to settle the dispute, the board has made numerous offers to the union. The money proposals have increased from 4 percent per year to almost 13 percent over two years. "This is in spite of the fact that Madison teachers have one of the lowest salaries in the area and rank first in three out of five salary categories reported by the State Board of Education for unit districts of similar size."

"The board is hopeful that the union will alter its position and become more willing to bargain the contract over reasonable benefits and conditions and not further disrupt the school program for the purpose of control. When this occurs, the board is confident that an agreement can be reached."

Eagle farm

Hope soars for birds of prey

The scene was ageless. A young golden eagle dipped and soared and played games with the wind that was buffeting the Illinois countryside. Quana, his name is Quana, and many have brought him into the picture. Recognizing a friend, the eagle landed gracefully on the arm of William Voelker.

Voelker's attempt to befriend raptors go far beyond training eagles to land on his arm. From an inconspicuous headquarters southwest of Belleville, Voelker heads a project that has resulted in the production of more than 80 eagles for return to the birds' natural habitats.

Voelker, schooled at the University of Oklahoma and Cornell University, has given him the background to produce the first eagles ever hatched through artificial insemination. A love and understanding of eagles, however, is something that has been instilled in him for as long as he can remember. "My father, Voelker, became fascinated with Indian lore when he was a child and, subsequently, with the part the eagle has played in Indian culture," the elder Voelker started keeping eagles when he was 11 years old.

His son, Evelyne Voelker, is a full-blooded Comanche Indian whom his father met at an Indian pow-wow. The golden eagle has been an important symbol in the tribe's religion.

"I've had eagles coming from both sides of the family," Voelker said. Robert Voelker's comments about the young eagle, named Quana, that he has been raising since he was a child and observation.

"The call the eagle's making—that's a call that they make under very aggressive hunting conditions," he said.

But why Quana was screaming that way was beyond him.

"So many things you study about eagles, and you still never know, because they're so inconsistent. The inconsistency is what makes it fun."

The elder Voelker watched carefully as Quana abruptly landed on his son's arm.

"It's all right," he said. "It's all right, a sight? No matter how many times you've seen it."

When the flying session was over, William Voelker discussed the serious side of the eagle project. He is attempting that he and other volunteers are making to increase the eagle population.

In nesting cases that stretch far into the woods, golden eagles, bald eagles and other birds of prey are paired for mating. Some birds are given so much privacy that they're observed by humans only through one-way mirrors.

At the present, Voelker said Eagle Trust International—the official name of the group's non-profit research organization—has 22 species of birds representing five different continents. It's the largest collection of different eagle species in the world.

Many of the exotic birds are on indefinite loan from zoos and wildlife refuges; many of the native eagles, the bald eagles and golden eagles, used for breeding are crippled or injured in some way that makes their return to the wild impossible.

INJURED BALD EAGLES receive a permanent home at Eagle Trust, International. The birds are kept for breeding.

Of the Journal Staff

t an earlier time, Voelker said, these birds probably would have been destroyed.

Once a bird is handed over to the trust, it becomes the group's full responsibility. Donations often help to feed the birds. A trout hatchery in the Ozarks gives the organization fish that are dried while being transported to different tanks. A load of venison recently was given to it by the Tennessee Valley Authority.

However, quail and chickens also are an important part of the raptors' diet. Fur and bones must be ingested and then regurgitated for the birds.

Finding funds for food is just one of the money worries of Eagle Trust International. Federal funding has become nonexistent, and the group must rely on donations and volunteers to keep going with its research and breeding projects.

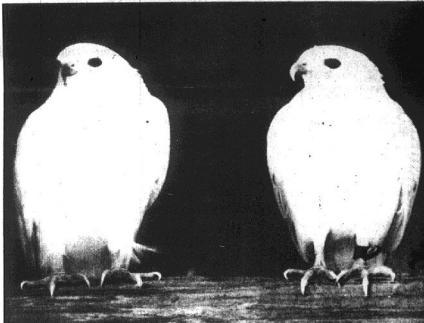

It was in 1978 that Voelker hatched the first bald eagle through artificial insemination. Since then, he's been perfecting the method.

He said he's developed a special tool to remove an egg from a female's oviduct and can complete the process in 80 seconds. Laboratory work is done at a volunteer's house in Granite City.

The group has the distinction of producing the first golden eagles to be placed on the Mississippi River, which marks a return to the birds' natural habitat. Its success at artificial insemination has made it the first to produce second-generation captive hatched eaglets. The reason for raptors' near extinction in recent times is simple, Voelker said.

"It's man cut and dried," he said. Pesticides and insecticides, particularly DDT, have done so much damage to bald eagles and golden eagles in the U.S. that it has taken 12-15 years for them to start to recover. The damage to birds of prey continues in third-world countries, Voelker said, since DDT is still used there.

Voelker used the birds to explain the deadliness of DDT to raptors' existence.

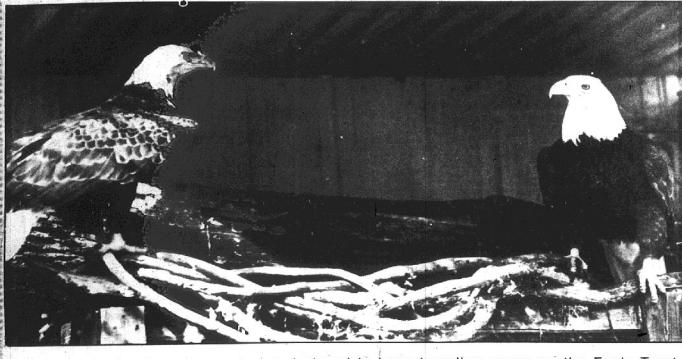

He said the sea eagles were deliberately shot during World War II because the birds are natural enemies of the peregrine falcon. DDT was used to carry messages from mainland Europe to Britain. The birds were almost nonexistent after the war, he said, but three years later they bounced back: 80 percent of their nests were reoccupied.

Today, because of DDT, almost none of the birds is left on the British coastline. However, Voelker said, the trust's first white-tailed sea eagle hatched in the spring and the group could work toward returning the birds to the Isle of Rum, off Scotland.

Voelker, 32, has devoted his life so far to studying and breeding raptors and said he has no intention of changing.

"There are so many threatened eagles, it would keep me going for a few lifetimes," he said.

"The work absolutely has to go on. The seeds were sown in the generation before me."

BALD EAGLES, above, are mated and placed in large breeding cages on the Eagle Trust property. William Voelker, right, holds out a steady arm as Quana, a young golden eagle, comes in for a landing.

Symphony features 'light classics' fare Nov. 17

Conductor Newton Wayland returns to St. Louis to lead the Symphony Orchestra in a program of light classics and old favorites in the tradition of Arthur Fiedler's Boston Pops. ## Not peddling a political message

HOLLYWOOD — If you're trying to make a living as a musician in Britain, you know all about unemployment benefit forms.

So what was more natural than when a new group formed in 1978 in Birmingham it should be named UB40, after the unemployment form.

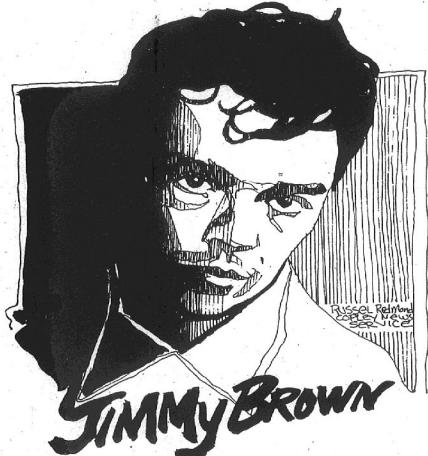

Seven years later UB40 is paying out a lot of tax money instead of some of it. The eight-member group grew up listening to reggae and they've made a fortune with that musical form.

But drummer James Brown denies that the group is on a crusade to save the world, a reference to the oft-mentioned view that reggae music is "message" music, which usually translates as a political message.

"I think some people overestimate the spiritual and political content of reggae," said Brown. "You can pontificate all you want, but we're simply looking to establish reggae as pop music. In England we're a pop band."

This is a statement backed up by their latest A&M album, "Little Reggaediddin." No messages here. Just bouncy, upbeat reggae. UB40 likes to have fun. Let the good times roll.

POINTER SISTERS — Contact (RCA) — One of the top rhythm and blues trios of this era, if not the best. They've been singing together since the early 1960s and through the years have developed seamless harmonies that ride along effortlessly on a sensuous beat. Their names are Anita, June and Ruth and the forecast for their musical future is sunshine all the way.

GODLEV & CREME — The Hit-Mix Volume 1 (Polygram) — Karen Godlev and Loli Creme's "Cry" was a smash hit in England and promises to lift this album up the charts in the United States. Also included are some of their old 10CC hits such as "Rubber Bullets" and "I'm Not in Love." The singers also are doing heavy work in video.

ONE WAY — Wrap Your Body (MCA) — Sexy, funky rhythms from Al Hudson's talented congregation. Lead vocalist Hudson has been deep into soul music since getting up his musical shop in the late 1960s. He knows how to lure listeners onto the dance floor and keep them there.

Travelers Abroad 'journey' to India with a friend

Travelers Abroad held its first fall meeting, with 35 members and guests in attendance. Secretary Helen Elmer-Jumonville welcomed business guests and conducted a meeting before turning the program over to Mrs. Elna Hoover, program chairman, who introduced Mrs. Barbara Williams, speaker of the evening.

Mrs. Williams spoke on her 17-day trip to India and Nepal last spring, noting that it took 24 hours' travel to get there and 30 hours to return. They traveled 20,500 miles and had 20 persons in their tour group.

India has a population of 700 million, with 80 percent living in rural areas. It is divided into 22 states with 14 major languages, and all business and legal work is conducted in English. The Hindu religion is professed by 83 percent of the people.

Arriving in Bombay in the middle of the night, they saw persons sleeping along the roadside as they drove to their hotel. From Bombay they traveled to the Andaman Islands where caves contain 15- to 18-foot sculptures of Shiva and others in the trinity of Hindu gods, carved from solid rock in 450-750 A.D.

Some of the sculptures were damaged by early Portuguese rulers who had soldiers use them for target practice.

Jaipur, known as the pink city because many buildings are constructed from pink sandstone, was the next stop. Rambagh Palace, formerly a maharajah's residence, was their temporary home.

They saw peacocks strutting through the courtyard, and they saw peacocks strolling through the grounds. Despite desert-like conditions, the palace grounds were a lush green with a profusion of zoos.

Afternoon traffic involved a religious festival for unmarried girls, all dressed in their best saris and each carrying a brass bowl containing a coconut toward the large Krishna Temple. In their parade were decorated horses, camels and elephants.

The tour members rode elephants as they traveled to the Amber Fort located on a high hill overlooking the city.

A five-hour bus trip led to Agra. Problems encountered was a road 1½ lanes wide, herds of goats, sheep and water buffalo in the road, bears blocking the path, a two-ton truck and a camel cart, and road repairs and improvements being made by hand without modern machinery. Women in saris were working in brickyards, harvesting grain by hand, and driving the local shoppers delighted in staring at the tourists.

New Delhi, they learned that the population rose from 700,000 in 1947, when independence from Great Britain was gained, to seven million. Despite this, New Delhi has the highest standard of living.

Mrs. Williams and another tour member visited the New Delhi zoo to see white rhinos and tigers. A young Indian boy appointed himself to be their guide and showed them all the zoos.

Srinagar, in the northern state of Kashmir, was only 20 miles from the border of Pakistan. Security was tight and thorough inspections were made of all articles carried. The group lived on houseboats in Srinagar. The temperature was in the 50s, and porters carried luggage in the boats, gave a welcome heat at night. The elaborately carved houseboats had Oriental rugs, velvet furniture and intricate chandeliers.

India

Stories in Varanasi were three stories tall with three different generations living together.

On the way back to New Delhi for a visit a large shopping center, their plane landed at Amritsar but the tour members tried in vain to see the Golden Temple of the Sikhs.

An oxen round and round to get seed from the grain.

Cycle-rickshaw rides were enjoyed, and in front of their hotel were a decorated camel and a decorated elephant available to pull tourists in Asia. Another major destination in India since it has the Taj Mahal, commissioned in 1632 by Shah Jahan as a memorial to his wife; she died in childbirth with their 14th child. The minarets are not attached to the building, each tilting outward.

On the grounds are two identical mosques—the real one faces Mecca and the other is there for symmetry only. The Taj is built of white marble and is surrounded by a moat. The shah was deposed by his son because of the money spent on the structure, and a proposed black marble memorial across the river was never built.

Varanasi, also known as Benares, may be the oldest city in the world, since it was a contemporary of Babylon and Thebes. It is the holy cit-ty for all Hindus and nearly 1½ million pilgrims visit yearly.

The tour group went out on the Ganges River about dawn and viewed pilgrims washing away their sins. On steps leading down to the Ganges, holy men were seated under umbrella trees, reciting holy water and special prayers.

Also on the banks of the river, women were washing clothes by beating them on rocks. Vultures were perched on some of the buildings, and the group found its way back through the old part of town to their bus, the group found the streets were narrow; reaching out both arms, one could touch the buildings on both sides. As they walked, they dodged dogs, other animals, people and trash on the ground.

The next city visited was Kathmandu, Nepal. A beautiful hotel, cooler weather and Coca Cola added to their enjoyment. The group visited Patan, near Kathmandu, where some people were said to live in ways that would offend the gods. It was learned that Kathmandu is being "couried" by both Russia and China; when one country builds a road for Nepal, the other country provides buses.

It is against the law in Nepal to convert someone to another religion. As in India, all tourist areas have aggressive vendors. Mrs. Williams said some of the group went on their own to a crowded local bazaar. No

Picasso exhibit exclusive in Miami

Art and Artifacts will share the cultural spotlight in greater Miami this fall/winter season.

Met-Dade County, for example, Fine Arts will offer the only U.S. showing of "Picasso in Miami," the never-before-seen Pablo Picasso art collection owned by the late Spanish painter's great-niece, Mrs. On display November 19-January 19, it contains over 200 works depicting still life, portrait and bullfight scenes. The center also will display 70 pieces of limelum prints on loan from the private collection of New York's Metropolitan Museum of Art.

Planet Ocean, on Miami's Key Biscayne, will present Crossroads of the Ancient World: Israel's Archaeological Heritage December 2-January 31.

The artifacts, dredged up from the seafloor of a great eastern Mediterranean trade center, include Egyptian scarabs, Phoenician goddesses, Greek vases and an ancient hand grenade. An enormous bronze battering ram from a classical warship, the only one in the world found intact so far, will also be on display. It is believed to have been built around 18th century B.C. to 640 A.D.

Currently at the Center for the Fine Arts through November 3 is "Power and Gold," a collection of jewelry and ornaments from biblical, India, Malaysia and the Philippines. From the Barber-Muller Museum in Geneva, Switzerland, the exhibit is a part of the Smithsonian Institution Traveling Exhibition.

November 7-January 3 at the Bass Museum, the American Experience will be on display. This premiere showing of a national tour consists of contributions from foreign-born artists to contemporary American art during the past 25 years.

Cooler weather means warm lunches

Autumn signals cooler weather and the introduction of soup into the daily menu. Soup takes the edge off the appetite and is ideal for weight-conscious diners. Depending on the ingredients, it can be served as an appetizer, a side dish or a main entree.

Homemade soups are likely to be lower in calories, fat and sodium than commercially prepared soups. Fat content can easily be controlled. Most canned and dried soup labels reveal the calorie content, as well as the ingredients. Canned, dried or frozen soups and souffles are among the easiest foods available. Beware of them and read the labels cautiously if sodium intake should be monitored.

Before starting a home-made soup, look through the refrigerator and pantry. Leftover vegetables, celery tops, outer leaves of salad greens and vegetables that have lost their crispness add flavor to soup stock. Not only will they increase the nutrient content, but also save the vegetables from being discarded and wasted.

Bones, meat scraps, chicken or beef broth and leftover vegetable

By JACQUELINE LANKFEE
Registered Dietitian
St. Louis Heart Association

Liquids make excellent soup stock; ideally, prepare broths a day ahead and refrigerate. Hardened fat is easier to remove than liquid fat. If it is impossible to prepare the stock ahead, skim off by using a large spoon and/or paper towels.

One teaspoon of fat will spread over the entire surface of a cup. If there are only dots of fat on the surface, it is likely that there is less than one teaspoon of fat present.

Although clear soups are usually the lowest in calories, cream soups and chowders made from a basic white sauce of flour, margarine, and skim milk also can provide low-calorie meals. A hearty, pureed or chopped vegetables and favorite herbs for a delicious main course or for a hearty appetizer with a light meat.

Main-dish soups are usually made with red meats, poultry or fish. However, using meat alternatives, like beans or lentils, mean a meal that is cholesterol-free and rich in protein and still satisfies the biggest appetite.

All vegetables, from asparagus to zucchini, make interesting soups. Don't be afraid to experiment.

Start with this timely recipe from the American Heart Assn. Cookbook. Although the recipe calls for 2 cups of puréed canned pumpkin, cooked, mashed fresh pumpkin may be substituted.

Pumpkin soup

- 3 green onions, sliced
- 2 tbsps. pumpkin
- 2 cups puréed canned pumpkin
- 2 tbsp. flour
- 1/8 tsp. ginger
- 1/8 tsp. nutmeg
- 2 cups skim milk
- 1 qt. chicken broth
- Chopped chives or parsley

Sauté onion in margarine. Stir in pumpkin. Blend flour, ginger and turmeric with 1 cup milk. Stir into the pumpkin mixture.

Add remaining milk. Cook, stirring constantly, 5 to 10 minutes until thickened. Do not allow to boil.

Mix in the broth. Heat until mixture almost boils. If the soup separates from overheating, whirl in a blender to restore consistency.

Serve hot, garnished with chives or parsley.

Yields 2 quarts.

Basted whitefish

- 1 lb. cod, pollock or other white fillets, thawed if necessary
- 2 tbsps. oil or margarine
- 1/2 tsp. dry wine or fish stock
- 1 tbsp. chopped onion
- 1 tbsp. chopped parsley
- Dash thyme or marjoram
- Lemon slices

Cut fish into serving-size pieces. Melt butter; add wine, onion, parsley, thyme and marjoram.

Place fish on oiled broiler rack; baste generously with butter mixture. Arrange lemon slices around fish.

Brown 4 to 6 inches from heat, allowing 10 minutes cooking time per inch of thickness measured at its thickest part or until fish flakes when tested with a fork. Baste with butter mixture during broiling.

Makes 4 or 5 servings.

Microwave directions: Cut fish into serving-size pieces. Melt butter; add wine, onion, parsley, thyme and marjoram.

Place fish in shallow microwave-proof dish, baste generously with butter mixture. Arrange lemon slices around fish. Cover with waxed paper; microwave on medium 5 minutes.

Rotate dish 1/4 turn. Baste with butter mixture; microwave at medium 2 or 3 minutes longer or until fish flakes when tested with a fork.

Mexican stew

- 3 tbsp. oil
- 1 lb. beef round steak, cut in 1-inch cubes
- 1 cup chopped onion
- 1 cup chopped green pepper
- 1 cup chopped tomatoes
- 1/2 cup sliced squash, peeled, cut in 1-inch cubes
- 1 lb. cabbage, cut in 2-inch pieces
- 1/2 lb. potatoes, peeled, cut in 1-inch cubes
- 4 cups water
- 4 beef bouillon cubes
- 1/2 tsp. salt
- 1/2 tsp. pepper
- 1 can (2 1/2 oz.) garbanzo beans, drained
- 1/2 cup cornstarch
- 1 cup water

In Dutch oven heat 2 tablespoons of the oil over medium-high heat. Add beef, half at a time. Brown on all sides, about 20 minutes. Remove.

Add onion. Cook, stirring, 1 minute.

Add tomatoes. Cook, stirring, 1 minute.

Add beef; squash, cabbage, potatoes, water, bouillon, salt and pepper. Bring to boil. Reduce heat; simmer 25 to 30 minutes or until potatoes are tender. Add garbanzo beans.

Mix cornstarch and 1/4 cup water until smooth. Stir into beef mixture. Simmer, stirring constantly, bring to boil over medium heat and boil 1 minute.

Makes 6 servings.

Cheese shortbread

- 1 1/2 cups flour
- 1/2 tsp. paprika
- 1/4 tsp. nutmeg
- 1/2 cup butter
- 2 cups (16 oz.) shredded colby cheese
- At room temperature
- 1/2 cup chopped walnuts

Combine flour, paprika and nutmeg; set aside.

Cream butter; gradually add cheese, beating until well blended. Gradually beat in dry ingredients. Place dough in a shallow, greased cookie sheet. Roll into 12x12-inch rectangle. Cut into 1x2-inch squares. Sprinkle on walnuts.

Bake at 400° for 12 to 15 minutes.

Re-cut; remove to wire racks to cool. Serve with chilled fresh fruit. Yields 42.

Baked chicken

Cut 1 chicken fryer into pieces with skin removed. Make a mixture of 1 cup cornflake crumbs, 1/2 teaspoon rosemary and 1/2 teaspoon pepper. Dip the pieces of chicken into the mixture, then roll the chicken into the crumb mixture. Place in a foil-lined baking pan. Bake at 400° for 45 minutes or until done. Serves 4.

SWEET ONIONS give quiche elegant flavor, no matter the time of day.

Onion quiche will entertain elegantly at lunch or brunch

The table will be graced with classic elegance when guests are presented with Cuthbert's Onion Quiche. Whether served as a luncheon entrée, a supper dish or an appetizer, the quiche will receive compliments for its rich flavor and delicate texture.

The variety of onion plays an important role in the taste appeal of the quiche. Sweet Spanish onions are used here, although other mild sweet varieties may substitute for them. In the classic custard filling, the thinly sliced onions bake up sweet and succulent.

When purchasing sweet onions, look for large, plump onions with thin, bronze-colored skin that crackles to the touch.

MILD-FLAVORED ONIONS are delicious in other dishes as well. They are especially suited for such favorites as deep-fried onion rings, whole sautéed onions and marinated onion rings.

To maintain their high quality at home, store onions in a cool, dark and dry location that has good ventilation. Cut onions should be wrapped and refrigerated or frozen and frozen.

No matter the time of day, there is an onion quiche to meet the occasion. This brunch version is appropriate for morning or midday menus with an easy custard filling. In the classic custard filling, the thinly sliced onions bake up sweet and succulent.

Attention Federal Employees

GREAT BENEFITS COME IN THE NICEST PACKAGES

Group Health Plan does more than offer Federal employees the most comprehensive health plan available. We've got a dental plan second to none. In fact, we've got the best benefit package available to Federal employees this year.

Just consider:

We cover routine health care, hospitalizations and surgical fees at 100% and provide medication at a cost of only $3 per prescription. Plus you get free eye exams and refractions. GHP also pays for preventive dental exams and the cost of extractions and fillings, with only minimal co-payments.

And now GHP has seven locations to serve you — five sites in St. Louis, St. Louis County, and St. Charles County, and two sites in Illinois — Alton and Fairview Heights.

Remember, after you pay your premium, nearly everything else is on us.

Now, isn't that the nicest package of all?

See our new locations in Alton and Fairview Heights, Illinois and in Chesterfield and St. Peters, Missouri.

Sister Patricia Perdue takes final vows

The Adorers of the Blood of Christ, Ruma province, celebrated the permanent consecration of Sister Patricia Perdue on Sunday, Oct. 27. During the 2 p.m. Mass at St. Patrick Parish, Sister Pat vowed to live to the Gospel counsels of poverty, chastity and obedience forever as an Adorer.

She is the daughter of Marjorie (Mier) Perdue of Granite City and her late James G. Perdue. Her mother, brothers and sisters, Jim, Mary, Tina, Paul and Pam, and a number of other community members, relatives and friends joined in the celebration.

Following high school in East St. Louis at St. Teresa's Academy and Alton High School, she studied at Washington University, St. Louis, where she graduated in 1981 with majors in sociology and human services.

The next year and a half of ministry was devoted to the Catholic Children's Home, Alton. In 1983, she began graduate studies at Aquinas Institute, St. Louis, where she completed her master degree in pastoral studies this spring.

Sr. Pat lives at St. Patrick Convent, East St. Louis, and serves at St. Mary's Hospital as a pastoral associate in the Pastoral Care Department.

All her life she has loved the outdoors and nature, enjoying her service at various camps, including Camp Ondessonk. Appreciation for nature symbols was evident in the profession liturgy with Scripture references to trees, streams, rootlessness, vines and branches.

Sister Joan Marie Voss, ASC, provincial, and Sister Joan Delaplane, OP, Aquinas Institute, had significant roles in the profession rite and Fr. Jerry Wirth, pastor of St. Patrick Parish, was the celebrant of the Eucharist.

Way of Lights to re-open at Our Lady of Snows Shrine

The Missionaries of Mary Immaculate, the Laymen's Association and the Shrine staff have arranged a mile and a half of 150,000 miniature white lights, new electric art sculptures featuring the Madonna and Child, and a live animal petting zoo, all leading to a life-size nativity scene.

A new display of decorative trees representing France, Poland, Italy, France.

Germany and Mexico will be featured in the International Christmas Room from 6 to 9 p.m., except Christmas Eve and Day and New Year's Eve and Day.

The "Small Ones" gift shop, "The Small Ones," will be shown in the Dr. Tom Dooley Center, 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. nightly.

An extensive smorgasbord will be served at the Shrine Restaurant Sunday through Thursday, 4 to 8 p.m.; Friday through Saturday, 4 to 9 p.m.; and on Christmas and New Year's Day, 11 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Children unfold the horrors of ritualism

First in a series

LOS ANGELES — Rita is rushing to work one morning when her eyes rest on her son, with mussed hair, broken-in jeans and a favorite pair of high-top sneakers.

At age 4, he is a precocious preschooler, pledged to Mr. T, baseball and chocolate ice cream. So the words that pour from the child's mouth make his mother shudder.

"I am the son of the devil," the little boy announces.

She might have dismissed it as imagination, had he not sprawled on the couch of their Hermosa Beach home a few days before, eyes fixed, fingers fashioned into the shapes of horns.

"Who are you doing?" the mother snapped. The boy bolted to the floor, rolled himself into a ball and squeezed under a telephone table.

The next morning, as he lay in bed with a stuffed animal tucked under his arm and a Big Bird poster hanging above his head, he answered her question:

"I'm talking to the devil."

Now 5, he is among hundreds of former Los Angeles-area nursery schoolers who talk of animal mutilation in Christian churches, chanting, drinking blood, urination in holy chalices and — most startling — human sacrifice.

When seven Virginia McMurtin Pre-School teachers were indicted a year ago, investigators tied accounts of rampant sex abuse to a child pornography ring.

But in the months since passed, a theory far more bizarre has been embraced by parents and studied by law enforcement officers who suspect the children fell prey to devil worshippers.

Something else happened at the McMurtin preschool before it and five other area nurseries were felled by suspicions of child molestation claim they saw children killed during satanic rituals.

The Hermosa Beach 5-year-old talks of a baby beheaded.

Another gospel concert by Roweton is to be given during a 7 p.m. worship service. Dr. Bob Jones, pastor of the church, is inviting the public to attend the day's events. A nursery will be provided.

Cross Country

Wiser finishes 16th at state meet

PEORIA, Ill. — There were some unexpected firsts at the annual Illinois High School Association state cross country finals held last weekend at Detweller.

For the first time in the history of the meet, a girl repeated as the individual champion. Wheeling's Dana Miroballi took top honors with a time of 11:29.5.

East St. Louis Lincoln failed to run as a pack. The Tigettes whose first four runners placed in the top 60, dropped from the pack. Lincoln's next runner placed 100th overall and the Tigettes had to settle for fourth place. It was the school's best-ever finish in the state final.

In the boy's meet, Alton's Norman Bilsbury ran out of gas in the final 200 yards and had to settle for a ninth place finish.

Bilsbury, a senior who has unbroken entering the state finals, ran step for step with Jim Gibson of Lake Forest.

But in the end, Gibson's pace was too much for Bilsbury.

Senior Lori Wiser placed 16th overall, covering the 2.1 mile course in 12:01.8.

Other members of the Granite City contingent placed as follows: Marianne Finn (129th), Sheila Noel (137th), Faye Patton (155th) and Lisa Wiser (161st).

In the girls' division, Downers Grove North ended Wheeling's string of two straight state titles. North finished with 131 points. Palatine took second with 146 points.

Wiser and East St. Louis Lincoln's Celisa Shy, who had battled for supremacy among area runners all year long, were the only Metro East runners in the top 20 in the girls' race. Wiser finished six-tenths of a second behind Shy.

Wheeling appeared to be in command for another state title after grabbing the meet's first two places. Miroballi and Alice Doyle were 1-2.

However, from there, Wheeling crumbled. The next highest Wheeling runner crossed line-in 80th place.

Lincoln, a team which also relies on a solid team effort, faltered a bit last Saturday.

Tigettes coach Nino Fennoy, whose team was one of the pre-meet favorites, thought if his team's fourth or fifth runner could have placed higher the outcome might have been different.

"You've got to have good performance up and down," Fennoy said.

"My job is to make those girls run as a team," Fennoy said. "I have to impress upon them (fifth, sixth seventh) runners how important their role is."

"Their performance is just as critical for us to do well," Fennoy said.

Wiser and Celisa Shy, who have battled each other all season long, were to only Metro East runners to crack the Top 20.

Shy finished just six-tenths of a second ahead of Wiser.

Granite City, making its third consecutive, will lose three runners to graduation; Lori and Lisa Wiser and Faye Patton are senior.

On the boys' level, Chicago Shaumburg ended Elmhurst York's stronghold in the Class AA division. York had won the last five titles, but finished fourth this year. Homewood-Flossmoor (172) and Hoffman Estates (190) rounded out the top three schools.

No other Metro East school qualified as a entire team.

In Class A, Elmhurst won its third small school title, with 69 points. Stan John paced the winners with a 10:45.5.

Among Metro East teams entered in the small school race, Lebanon placed ninth overall. Breeze Materi, led by Delbert Higgins who was 12th, placed 15th overall. Wescalin was 12th overall.

Over 200 runners participate in SEMC's 'Going Strong' run

Approximately 200 runners participated in St. Elizabeth Medical Center's "Going Strong" run Oct. 26.

The first runner to finish the five-mile course was 24:58. The first female to finish was Marianne Colter, who had a time of 31:18. Those two also finished first in the hospital's run last year.

People who ran 85 to 90 miles the week before the race did it for the competition.

"I'm competing against myself," he admits. "I like to see how much I've improved. I'm a teacher and always preach that to the kids: 'Do the best you can.' So I kind of live by that myself."

The five-mile course began at the hospital, circled around Wilson Park and ended back at the medical center. A shorter, one-mile "fun run" was also held for those who were not interested in a competitive event.

After the runners returned to the hospital, an awards ceremony was held and 34 trophies were given to the winners in each of seven age categories. KMOX-TV news anchor Dan Gray was on hand to present the trophies to each of the winners.

This was the second year that St. Elizabeth has sponsored a run. According to Ralph Hausmann, race director, the event fit in with the hospital's new "Going Strong" wellness program.

"I think it was a good turnout," she said. "The idea came from trying to have an event which would tie in with the wellness and fitness concept. Now that we have a wellness program at the hospital, we've named the race after it."

The run attracted other people than just Granite City residents. Among them were John Frost, president of Edwardsville National Bank and a member of SEMC's board of directors.

Dan Adams, of Granite City Glass & Fence Co., and the race's sponsor, also completed the five-mile course.

Jean G. Williams, who ran in Berlin, Germany, with the U.S. Army, used part of his leave to run the five-mile course.

Jo Hansen, vice president of Emerson Electric in St. Louis and a member of the hospital-managed ARCH House board of directors, ran the five-mile course in support of the medical center and its activities.

Sport fishing survey done

SPRINGFIELD — Anglers in Illinois made more than 1 million fishing trips last year, according to recently analyzed results of a massive statewide sport fishing survey which measured fishing activities during the 1983 licensing year (April 1, 1983-March 31, 1984).

Dick Baur, a resource service analyst with the Department of Conservation, explained that the results of 7,200 angler questionnaires were studied and compared with the two previous surveys conducted in 1977 and 1981.

"Our Department has conducted creel surveys on many lakes and streams throughout the state in the past," Baur said. "However, we need information about the general characteristics of Illinois anglers such as type of water he fishes, kinds of fish he seeks and harvests, and other basic information."

The information from the 1983 survey is being used to update the state's comprehensive fisheries plan. Baur said.

"These surveys reveal the needs and desires of the anglers in Illinois," he added.

To document these needs, information was gathered using fishing questionnaires. A summary of the 7,200 anglers polled indicated the following:

— Only 57 percent of the anglers fishing in Illinois are licensed; the rest are exempt due to age or disability.

— Nearly 1.4 million anglers sport-fished in Illinois during the year, with only 4.2 percent being out-of-state anglers.

— The greatest number of fishing trips were spent seeking black bass (26.3 percent), followed by catfish (18.4 percent), crappie (13.7 percent) and sunfish (11.8 percent).

— Sunfish were the most frequently caught fish (26.4 percent), followed by crappie (23.2 percent), smelt (16.0 percent), catfish (7.4 percent) and black bass (6.7 percent).

— Anglers indicated they most prefer to fish for black bass and fairly constant at about three million trips per year.

Baur said the surveys were conducted because information about Illinois anglers on a statewide and regional basis is needed so the DDC can better meet the needs of sport anglers.

States get $167 million in fish, wildlife funds

More than $167 million in sport fish and wildlife restoration funds have been provided to the states, commonwealths and territories by the Interior Department's U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service as the first of two appropriations for 1986.

The money, which will be supplemented by a final appropriation in early 1986, comes from excise taxes on sporting equipment boats and $6.2 in new "Wallop-Breaux" receipts, for a total of $80 million. It is anticipated that year-end receipts will total approximately $121 million. This year, the states receiving the largest share of sport fish restoration money include Alaska, California, Texas, Minnesota and Michigan.

A total of $87.8 million is now being made available as the preliminary "Pittman-Robertson" wildlife restoration funds for fiscal year 1986, made of $77.35 million in restoration funds and $10.45 million in hunter safety education money.

The "Dingell-Johnson" fisheries program has provided more than $80 million to support restoration activities since the program was first allocated in 1952. The "Pittman-Robertson" wildlife program has generated over $1.6 billion since its creation in 1939.

catfish, followed by catfish, walleye, sunfish and northern pike or muskie.

Anglers averaged 29.7 fishing trips in Illinois during the year.

About 40.1 million fishing trips were made in Illinois waters during the year.

The greatest number of fishing trips were made to lakes and ponds (57.9 percent), followed by streams (25.9 percent). Lake Michigan (8.9 percent) and the three major reservoirs (4.3 percent) were the three top conservation lakes (13 percent).

When the waters of Illinois were divided into 14 different categories, the most fished water type was privately-owned lakes and ponds (20 percent of total trips) followed by state and county parks (17 percent).

Anglers fished 14 different species of fish during the survey, according to the report.

"The survey revealed that 84 percent of the trips occurred between April 1 and Sept. 30.

Anglers were asked the question, "Why do you go fishing?" The most common answer was "For the enjoyment of the outdoors," followed by "For the thrill of catching fish."

The survey — partially funded by Dingell-Johnson monies — will be repeated next year.

"This ongoing effort will provide us with a better idea of what the Illinois angler wants and help us better manage the fisheries resource."

Stamp art contest rules available

SPRINGFIELD — Applications, contest rules and other materials for next year's Illinois Salmon Stamp art competition are available now through the Illinois Department of Natural Resources, according to Curt Bloomer, contest coordinator. The winning painting will be used to illustrate the state's 1987 salmon stamp.

Contest entries will be accepted no earlier than March 3. The deadline for entries is 5 p.m. on March 7. Judging is scheduled for March 14 at 9 a.m. in the State of Illinois Center, 100 W. Randolph St., Chicago.

The winning artist will earn $1,000 and receive $9 Artist's Proof copies of his work. Runners-up in second through fifth place receive $100, $75, $50 and $25, respectively. The winning artist will be ineligible to compete the following year.

The purpose of the contest is to provide the Conservation Department with a new stamp design for the following year, the statement said.

The $25 stamp must be purchased and carried by all anglers fishing for coho and chinook salmon or any of the various trout species.

Any one is eligible to participate under the conditions set by the Conservation Department employees or an immediate relative of a judge of DOC employee. A $10 non-refundable entry fee to cover contest administration is required. One entry will be accepted from any artist.

A five-member panel, which will include persons knowledgeable in art, conservation and/or employment, will be chosen by the Department of Conservation Information/Education Division, 524 S. Second St., Springfield, Ill., 62706, or call him at 217-782-7454.

The winner of the 1985 contest was U.S. Navy artist Norman Wagner of Peoria. His watercolor illustration of a pair of chinook salmon feeding on alewives topped a field of 155 other paintings from artists in 33 states.

Outdoors

Entries will be judged for anatomical accuracy, artistic composition, perspective and capabilities for reproduction in their fullest tone and detail.

Artwork must be eight inches high, 10 inches wide, mounted and matted in a 12 by 12 inches, and protected by a covering of non-glass mat acetate or other clear material. Entries framed or under glass, signed, or containing scrollwork or lettering will not be accepted. A number affixed to each painting by the contest coordinator will be the only identification until the judging is completed. Space must not be left on the painting for stamp lettering or other information, such as price or serial number.

Paintings must be in full color, but may be done in oil, watercolor or other art medium.

For an entry form, copies of the rules and purchase award of agreement, or for additional information, contact Curt Bloomer, Illinois Department of Natural Resources, Information/Education Division, 524 S. Second St., Springfield, Ill., 62706, or call him at 217-782-7454.

East Side shows they can win tough ones, too

If it was going to happen, it would have happened last week.

The East St. Louis Flyers won their 38th consecutive game Saturday, a 13-0 win over Carl Sandburg High in Orlans Park. The Flyers are two victories away from their third straight state title.

But all the elements were there for the Flyers' first loss since 1982. A long trip north, an unsettled week that started out with the East St. Louis teachers union on strike and a second one on Friday, could have conspired to bring Bob Shannon's team crashing to earth.

But it didn't happen. That's good for our part of the state. But more about that later.

Flyers showed everybody something. It's easy when you're playing at home against a team you can physically overwhelm. Games victory this year had been a mere 34 points against Barrington Sept. 28.

They earned a badge of honor Saturday. On their first possession of the game, the Flyers fulfilled their promise to bring Bob Shannon's team crashing to earth.

But it didn't happen. That's good for our part of the state. But more about that later.

Flyers showed everybody something. It's easy when you're playing at home against a team you can physically overwhelm. Games

The Flyers, for the first time in a long time, knew they were in a game.

Shannon said after the game he was concerned because his team had never played in such weather. The Flyers didn't play great, he said, but just well enough to win.

No, they didn't play great, if "great" is playing a game with a score looking like a lopsided basketball game. But they showed their greatness.

Michael Cox scored on a 48-yard run to give the Flyers a 6-0 halftime lead, and he added a 13-yard score on the opening drive of the second half. The defense did the rest.

It's easy to be overshadowed when your offense scores 596 points in 12 games (Saturday was the first time they had scored fewer than 27 points this season), but the defense has now allowed only 45 points on the year, an average of 3.75 per game. Twelve points, yielded by Lockport last week, was their "worst" effort of the year.

So the Flyers move on to the semifinals Saturday at home against Buffalo Grove.

Good. I'm really kind of glad it's not Rockford or Decatur or Springfield that's been doing well in the Class 6A playoffs that it would be East St. Louis against a large contingent of Chicago schools. Twenty-eight of the 32 teams in that class were either from the Windy City or its suburbs.

The other three non-Chicago teams were eliminated quickly. Now admit it. Even if you're not an East St. Louis fan during the season, you're hoping for them to rip the teams from the big city, aren't you?

Southern Illinois teams have been fair a little bit, slightly by the Chicagoans. Of all the good things that happened to the Cardinals this year, wasn't one of the best their 14-4 mark against the Cubs? Wasn't the Big Red's 30-20 victory over the supposedly impenetrable defense last year satisfying? Aren't the Blues' wins over the Black Hawks among the best of the hockey season?

I can't pinpoint why, but when a southern Illinois team wins a state title, it's always best to beat a Chicago team rather than one from, say, Springfield or Danville.

So, Chicago, bring on your best for the Flyers. Bring on the Bears (well, that might be a little much). The Flyers can handle it. They can handle anything.

They proved that Saturday.

that end up 76-0 or 58-3 don't tell you much about a team except there are a lot of guys who can go out and kick the stumps out of other teams in the area.

Another thing to travel 200 miles to play an unfamiliar opponent on a wet, unfamiliar field. And when that team is in the state quarterfinals, they obviously can play a little bit, too.

However, the Flyers came through. Usually, by the beginning of the fourth quarter, Shannon has his first-stringers on the sidelines, and there's plenty of time for laughing and joking while the cheerleaders get a chance to add to their individual statistics.

There was no time for that Saturday, however, and the result was a victory Flyer fans could be proud of more than any of the previous 37 in a row. The Flyers' smallest margin of

Deer hunters can hunt coyotes

SPRINGFIELD — Due to a recent change in state law, deer hunters can hunt coyotes during the six-day firearm deer season to help reduce the state's growing coyote population, according to Dave Klinedinst, acting chief of the Division of Wildlife for the Department of Conservation.

Klinedinst explained that harvesting coyotes was illegal during the firearm deer season until this year, to prevent hunters from confusing coyote hunters. The new law, he said, allows deer hunters to hunt coyotes if they have an unfilled deer permit. Once a hunter has taken a deer, he can not be in the field hunting coyotes.

"The change in the law grew out of a concern that the coyote population needed control," Klinedinst said. "There was the perception that the growing coyote population was providing to be a threat to the stock of deer hunters often observe coyotes from their tree stands, can now assist in controlling that problem."

The change in the law will be effective for this year's firearm deer season, scheduled for Nov. 13-17 and Dec. 13-15. Firearm deer hunting is allowed in all Illinois counties except Cook, DuPage, Kane and Lake.
